NEW PRIORITIES FULLY ASSIGNED

Delivery teams identified while existing commitments remain protected.

The Firm has named delivery teams for its strategic priorities, completing an important step towards mobilisation.

Nominated colleagues will remain on their current assignments until release dates have been agreed with the relevant project owners. Existing deadlines and budgets are unchanged.

Project owners have welcomed the opportunity to contribute experienced people. Releases will be confirmed once suitable replacements are in place, allowing clients to benefit from continuity throughout the transition.

Finance has asked workstream sponsors to identify the budgets that will move with their teams. Current budget owners should retain sufficient funding to meet all outstanding commitments.

In the meantime, nominated colleagues will prepare mobilisation plans alongside their current work. The plans should identify the capacity needed to begin.

All priorities now have a team. Start dates will follow once the teams become available.

LETTERS

I have been nominated to represent my project on the group reviewing how we can reduce internal meetings.

The first session is at the same time as our project meeting. My project lead has asked me to attend that one because I hold the latest figures. The review group has asked me to attend theirs because it needs to hear from active projects.

I have accepted both invitations so that neither group has to postpone its work.
